THE GUEST PRIVILEGE OF MEMBERS

Heretofore it has been the custom to mail with each member's annual ticket and bill, ten or more guest tickets, according to the class of membership. These tickets are, when signed by the member, good for one free admission each on a pay day.

About 27,000 of these tickets were issued to members during the last year, of which only about 1000 were used. As this distribution involves a considerable expense, it has seemed advisable to call the attention of the members to the great discrepancy between the number of tickets issued and the number used. In order to prevent this waste it has been decided that hereafter guest tickets will be supplied only upon request, and not sent, as formerly, with the membership cards. Hereafter any member who desires guest tickets may secure them upon application, either in writing or in person, to the Museum office—the allotted number of tickets for the ensuing year being issued at one time upon such request.
